RULES OF THE LIBRARY.

I. The Library will be open from half past nine o'clock, A.M. till five o'clock, P.M., daily throughout the year, except during the months of July and August, when it will be open from ten o'clock until two o'clock, and on Sundays and those holidays when the courts are closed.

II. The Librarian will be in attendance a substantial part of every day, except during the months of July and August. He will preserve all orders for books until he has seen that the volumes which they include are returned, which shall be, if possible, on the same day on which they are sent out. He will superintend their return by his assistant and the tipstaves, carefully comparing those returned with the orders.

III. The following persons only will be allowed to use the Library:— Those members of the Association, and Subscribers to the Library, whose payments are not, at the time, in arrear; Judges of the Courts sitting within the city, and Judges and members of the bar not residing within the city. No clerk or assistant of any member or subscriber will be allowed to use the books, unless he shall bring and exhibit to the Librarian a certificate that he comes only to examine the law for such member or subscriber for a case or purpose in which he himself has no professional concern; and, except upon the nights of its meetings, no membership of the Law Academy will entitle to the use of the Library.

IV. No book shall be taken from the room by any person other than a Judge of the Supreme Court, except for the purpose of being used in the courts. In order to show that the person desiring a book is entitled to it, and to confine the use of the Library to those who have the right to use it, no book whatever will be allowed to leave the room, without a written order signed by the person calling for it, and for his own use.

V. Conversation in the Western room is forbidden. Gentlemen who wish to converse will withdraw to the Eastern room.

LAW LIBRARY, 1861.

The use of the Library is confined at this time to the following gentlemen:
